WE ARE THE BEST

n Becsei, independent watchmakers are the best of the watchmakers. Their work are quite from the work of common watchmakers. Indeed, the passion that independent watchmakers to watchmaking is always moving. Then, how does this young designer born in a watch e his own career? And how does that identity make him understand watch differently? in with our BQ reporter, and have a close chat with Aaron Becsei.

S, Miniature Zappler, Tourbillon No.2...Walking e room of Aaron Becsei, you will find all kinds of rn in Budapest, the capital of Hungary, the young e watchmaker devotes himself to watchmaking shop every day. The 31-year-old Aaron Becsei is ime of life. But as early as 2005, he joined AHCI a member of the independent watchmaker club. aron Becsei came from a watch family, it's his hat he entered this industry. He told BQ reporter e are the best of watchmakers."

or of the Watch Family

Becsei's grandfather and father are engaged in watch-

To have a deeper engineering knowledge he went to the School of Technical Sciences of Budapest in the faculty of CAD/CAM design. His graduation thesis paper on Tourbillon watch was honored with Diploma Prize by the Chamber of Engineering in Budapest.

As an inheritor of the watch family, he received a very orthodox watch education. But when BQ reporter asked him how he thought about such education, he gave us an unexpected answer. In fact, it's not necessary to get a formal education as it depends on which part of watch industry one would like to be working at. As Aaron Becsei takes charge of all the departments of his company (except for the non-manufacturing parts like administration, marketing etc. which are managed by his wife), therefore he can use that knowledge well in his professional life. But for someone who is interested in assembling who designed the movement and the case, and who made it by part, who finished with his hands all the part one by one assembled the entire watch. As an independent watchmaker, is what he is most proud of.

Every day, Aaron Becsei works in his workshop for more t 10 hours. And those independent watchmakers always la on how obsessively each of them works. He told BQ repo that independent watchmakers are different businessmen, all of them have one thing in common: the passion for creat timepieces. Independent watchmaking is a different wo You cannot compare it with a usual "big brand" busin Comparatively speaking, it's always easier to join an establis group, and follow a well known path. But that never attra
